QUICK START GUIDE

Homecoming Mobile App
The best way to navigate our virtual Homecoming events is with the mobile app. Get the free Cal Events app at guidebook.com/g/calhomecoming2021. Use the Homecoming 2021 guide to explore your options for the weekend, create your own custom schedule, and get all of the links for virtual events. A desktop version is available if you prefer.

COMING TO CAMPUS?

Homecoming Headquarters
Friday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Saturday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
At the Base of the Campanile

Stop in at Homecoming Headquarters when you first arrive to pick up your name tag. This badge gives you access to lectures, museums, libraries, tours, golf cart service, and all of the amenities at Homecoming Headquarters.

Bears Lounge
Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday, 8 a.m. to football kickoff

Relax, enjoy refreshments, and plan your day with the help of Cal staff and students.

Lecture Viewing Lounge

Social Media
Connect with us on Twitter (@Cal), Facebook (Cal), and Instagram (@UCBerkeley), and use #CalHC. Tag us to share your Homecoming experience or upload your content to homecoming.berkeley.edu/social!

Lost and Found
Go to Homecoming Headquarters until 4 p.m. on Saturday or call 888.UNIV.CAL (888.864.8225) after October 4.

On-Site Registration
The in-person Class Pass costs $35 and includes the following: access to museums, libraries, tours, golf cart service, amenities at Homecoming Headquarters, and all virtual lectures. Ticket prices for individual events vary and are subject to availability.

Public Transportation
Since parking is limited, we recommend public transportation. Dial "511" or visit 511.org for bus and train schedules, maps, and other resources. Ride-sharing services like Lyft and Uber are widely available in the Bay Area. Once you arrive on campus, Bear Transit shuttles are free thanks to our partners at Parking and Transportation. Simply show your badge when you board. Volunteers will be available to escort you within campus grounds on golf carts for free. Stop by Homecoming Headquarters or any info booth to arrange for a pickup.

Parking
Public parking is available throughout Berkeley all weekend and on campus on Friday after 5 p.m. and Sunday. Charges and hours vary. Map on pages 6–7. Campus parking is not available on Saturday because of the football game.

Public Health
Get the latest information about visiting UC Berkeley during COVID-19 response and recovery at coronavirus.berkeley.edu. All guests are expected to comply with current local public health guidelines.

Weather
All events take place rain or shine.

Special Offers
Thanks to campus and community partners, registered Homecoming guests can show their name badges to get the following great deals.

- Bear Transit: Ride free on the shuttle.
- Botanical Garden: Admission is free. See page 14 for details.
- Cal Athletics: Purchase discounted tickets to the Cal vs. Washington State Homecoming football game by visiting fevo.me/calhomecoming21. See page 31 for details.
- Cal Student Store: 15% discount

ALL-DAY EVENTS

Blockeley Campus Tour

All-day
Virtual

The Blockeley experience is back at Homecoming for the second year in a row. The Blockeley Minecraft server features an almost exact replica of the campus in Minecraft. Fly around and explore using Minecraft controls!

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by Blockeley

Dialogues on Race, Identity, Justice, and People of Color

All-day
Virtual

In light of the George Floyd tragedy and the hate crimes against Asian Americans, a speaker series has been organized to explore the issues of race, identity, justice, and discrimination against minorities and people of color. Referencing on "The June 19th Dialogues: Stories & Histories from the Black & Asian Communities" initiated by the Berkeley Chinese Alumni International Association and Cal Armed Forces Alumni Association, we invite other leaders of the Berkeley community to discuss experiences on our shared struggles and how we can all work together to create a more inclusive and equitable society.

R. Jay Wallace
William and Trudy Ausfahl Professor, Department of Philosophy

Raymond Bank
President, Cal Armed Forces Alumni Association

Chuck Ng
President, Berkeley Chinese Alumni International Association

Lectures & Learning Opportunities
Hosted by Cal Armed Forces Alumni Association, Berkeley Chinese Alumni International Association

Hearst Museum Virtual Open House

All-day
Virtual

The Hearst Museum of Anthropology curates global collections to inspire understanding of what it means to be human. This Homecoming weekend, take advantage of its many online resources like exhibits, events, articles and more, all from the comfort of home.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by Phoebe A. Hearst Museum of Anthropology

Events are first-come, first-served. Arrive early! All events take place rain or shine.
All guests are expected to comply with current local public health guidelines.

Parents' Info Lounge
All-day

Stop by and chat with campus staff to learn about topics of specific interest to parents of Cal students and families. Learn what resources are available for you, and get advice on how your student can make the most of their time on campus. The schedule will be updated on the Homecoming website.

Meet-ups & Meals
Hosted by Cal Parents

The Van Houten History Tour
All-day
Virtual

Take a fun, virtual tour with revered campus historian Peter S. Van Houten '56, M.A. '62, Ed.D. '73. Van Houten has developed an encyclopedic knowledge of memorable people, buildings, events, and traditions based on his 60-plus years on campus as a student and then as an administrator. Gain a special perspective and "meet" some important historical figures from Cal's fascinating past.

Peter S. Van Houten
Peter S. Van Houten '56, M.A. '62, Ed. D. '73 served under Arleigh Williams as associate dean of students, dean of orientation, and head of the pre-medical advising program. During his time at Cal, Van Houten lettered in volleyball and baseball, coached the junior varsity baseball team in 1957, and was active in the ASUC and honor societies. Since his retirement in 2000, Van Houten has done admissions outreach for Berkeley as a volunteer and shares Cal cheer on his costumed campus history tour.

Tours & Open Houses

UC Botanical Garden
9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
UC Botanical Garden

Explore the incredible diversity of plant habitats from six continents — redwood forests, deserts, tropical forests, wetlands — at the UC Botanical Garden. Feast your senses on collections of orchids and carnivorous plants, the Garden of Old Roses, and spectacular views of the Golden Gate Bridge. UC Botanical Garden has waived admission for Homecoming guests. Simply show your badge at the entrance. Please note that access to the gardens on Saturday may be impacted by Homecoming football game road closures.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by UC Botanical Garden

Bears Lounge
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Homecoming Headquarters

Relax, enjoy refreshments, and plan your day with the help of Cal staff and students.

Meet-ups & Meals

Doe, Moffitt, and Main (Gardner) Stacks Open House
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Doe Library

Visit three libraries that are located near Memorial Glade. All are connected to one another. Start at Doe Library to visit the vast reading rooms and see the latest exhibit in the Brown Gallery. Show your Homecoming nametag for access to Main (Gardner) Stacks, a three-story underground structure measuring a football field-and-a-half-long and packed with 2.6 million volumes from around the world. As you exit Main Stacks, enter Moffitt Library for a peek at the study and collaboration spaces, and head to the third floor for a bite at the Free Speech Movement Café.

Tours & Open Houses

Sickness & Health in Texts from Premodern China, Japan, & Korea
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
C. V. Starr East Asian Library, First and Third Floors

Recent events have made us all more aware of illness and contagion, therapies both proven and questionable, and the medical professionals who help us guard our health or regain it. Sickness & Health presents a selection of early East Asian texts focusing on issues such as treatment and prevention, factors that can influence health, and the practitioners and theoreticians that shaped the field of health care in the centuries leading up to the modern era.

Lectures & Learning Opportunities, Tours & Open Houses

Visit Class of 1966 Plaque
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Reference Room, Doe Library

The Class of 1966 has been a long-time, loyal supporter of the UC Berkeley Library. In recognition of their Class of 1966 Library Endowment, the Library has recognized and honored them with a class plaque. Throughout the weekend, feel free to visit your class plaque located on the second floor of Doe Library in the reference room. If you would like to visit your Class of 1966 plaque with classmates, gather at the north entrance of Doe Library at 2:30 p.m.

Tours & Open Houses

Homecoming Headquarters
9 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Homecoming Headquarters

Stop in at Homecoming Headquarters when you first arrive to pick up your name tag. This badge gives you access to lectures, museums, libraries, tours, golf cart service, and all the amenities at Homecoming Headquarters.

Meet-ups & Meals

Bancroft Gallery Exhibition & Gallery Tours
10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Bancroft Library

Next year marks the 80th anniversary of Executive Order 9066, authorizing the forced evacuation of all persons of Japanese descent, including American citizens, from their homes on the West Coast to assembly centers and internment camps during World War II. The exhibition looks at original documents, photographs, and films of the time, with an emphasis on the response of internees, drawn from their letters, scrapbooks, artworks, photographs, and interviews. Exhibition curators will give gallery talks at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Space is limited to 20 guests per tour in order to comply with COVID-19 preventative safety measures.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by UC Berkeley Library

Events are first-come, first-served. Arrive early! All events take place rain or shine. All guests are expected to comply with current local public health guidelines.

Rec Sports Open House
10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Recreational Sports Facility

Take a tour of Berkeley's largest, most complete fitness and wellness center! The facility boasts an Olympic-sized swimming pool, weight rooms, multiple sport courts, a functional fitness studio, cardio machines, fitness classes, and more.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by Berkeley Recreational Sports

Lecture Viewing Lounge
10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
MLK, Jr. Student Union,
East Pauley Ballroom

Are you attending Homecoming in person? Need a comfortable spot to watch a virtual lecture? This is the place! Some lectures will be broadcast on-screen in the auditorium. Or you can connect your personal device to Wi-Fi, plug in your headphones, and stream one of the many virtual offerings.

Lectures & Learning Opportunities

Discovery Stations at the UC Botanical Garden
11 a.m. to 3 p.m.
UC Botanical Garden

UC Botanical Garden has waived admission for Homecoming guests! Simply show your badge at the entrance to explore the incredible diversity of plant habitats from six continents: redwood forests, deserts, tropical forests, and wetlands. On Friday and Sunday, you can visit four discovery stations staffed by trained docents. These stations will be located next to the following garden collections: Deserts of the Americas & Southern African Collections, Australasian and South American Collections, Cycad and Palm Garden & California Native Redwood Trees, and the California Collection.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by UC Botanical Garden

CAA Alumni Welcome Center
11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Bear's Lair Beergarden
11 a.m. to 11 p.m.
Lower Sproul Plaza

The Bear's Lair has come roaring back! Sit outside on our extended patio and enjoy a snack, meal, or "bear-ski." The traditions continue at the all-new Bear's Lair, the official pub of UC Berkeley!

Meet-ups & Meals
Hosted by ASUC Student Union

Insect Open House with the Essig Museum of Entomology
Noon to 5 p.m.
1170 Valley Life Sciences Building

See insects and spiders from around the world. Talk with scientists about how they study insects to understand ecology, evolution, behavior, and global change. You'll also learn how natural history museums are providing data to better understand nature's response to droughts, fires, and a changing environment.

Tours & Open Houses
Hosted by Essig Museum of Entomology

EVENTS THROUGHOUT THE DAY

SkyDeck Open House
9 to 11 a.m.
SkyDeck, 2150 Shattuck Ave, Penthouse

Berkeley SkyDeck is currently home to nearly 300 startup companies. SkyDeck's startups receive funding, mentorship from seasoned advisers, and free office space so they can more easily build innovative technologies. SkyDeck also aims to support UC Berkeley with the Berkeley SkyDeck Fund that gives back half of its investment profits to campus. If you're an aspiring or current entrepreneur or are fascinated by cutting-edge technology, this tour is for you. Elevators to its location at the Penthouse are between the Chase Bank and the Paris Baguette Bakery. Select PH in the elevator to get to SkyDeck.

A New Surprise in the Accelerating Expansion of the Universe

10:10 to 11 a.m.
Virtual

In 1998, two essentially independent research teams discovered that distant supernovae (exploding stars) were fainter than previously predicted. Is the expansion of the universe speeding up rather than decelerating? Surprisingly, the current expansion rate that was recently measured with supernovae is higher than that predicted from observations of the young universe. Hear about exciting new physical explanations that are now being explored!

Alex Filippenko
Professor, Department of Astronomy
Alex Filippenko, a member of both the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, is one of the world's most highly cited astrophysicists. Filippenko was voted Best Professor at UC Berkeley a record nine times. In 2006, he was named the Case/Carnegie National Professor of the Year among doctoral institutions. Filippenko has produced five astronomy video courses with the Great Courses, co-authored an award-winning astronomy textbook, and appeared in more than 120 television documentaries.

Improving the Economic Mobility of Black Boys and Young Men

10:10 to 11 a.m.
Virtual

Professor Sean Joe will discuss how advancing community science can improve the economic mobility of Black boys and young men by 2040. Please register separately for this lecture.

Sean Joe
Benjamin E. Youngdahl Professor of Social Development, Brown School, Washington University at St. Louis
Sean Joe, Ph.D., M.S.W. joined the Brown School at Washington University at St. Louis in the fall of 2014 as the Benjamin E. Youngdahl Professor of Social Development. Joe is a nationally recognized authority on suicidal behavior among African Americans. His research focuses on Black adolescents' mental health service use patterns, the role of religion in Black suicidal behavior, salivary biomarkers for suicidal behavior, and development of father-focused, family-based interventions to prevent urban African American adolescent males from engaging in multiple forms of self-destructive behaviors.

CRISPR: Rewriting DNA and the Future of Humanity

11:10 a.m. to noon
Virtual

Developed in Berkeley in 2012, the CRISPR-Cas9 system lets scientists rewrite DNA in living cells and organisms, editing the genetic code that defines life itself. Powerful real-world applications are already happening. CRISPR expert and science communicator Megan Hochstrasser will describe how genome editing works, what it can do, and how important it is to grapple with CRISPR's ethical implications sooner rather than later.

Megan Hochstrasser
Education Program Manager, Innovative Genomics Institute
Megan Hochstrasser earned her B.A. in biology from Brown University and received her Ph.D. from Jennifer Doudna's lab at UC Berkeley in 2016, where she studied natural CRISPR systems. She joined the Innovative Genomics Institute to bridge the gap between researchers and the public. As a CRISPR expert and professional science communicator, Hochstrasser brings diverse audiences into the conversation about genome editing.

Honoring Michael Omi: Racial Formations

12:10 to 1 p.m.
Virtual

Professor Michael Omi retired in June 2021 after many years as a beloved and inspirational faculty member at UC Berkeley. This panel is the kick-off for a symposium featuring his colleagues and former students discussing his work and its implications in the academy and community. Chancellor Carol T. Christ will give opening remarks.

Stephen Small
Director, Institute for the Study of Societal Issues; Professor, African American Studies
Stephen Small's publications include Global Mixed Race; New Perspectives on Slavery and Colonialism in the Caribbean, Black Europe and the African Diaspora; and 20 Questions and Answers on Black Europe. His next book is tentatively entitled, Inside the Shadows of the Big House: 21st Century Antebellum Slave Cabins and Heritage Tourism in Louisiana, to be published in 2021. He is currently co-writing a book with Kwame Nimako on public history, museums, and slavery in England and the Netherlands.

Victor Rios
Professor, Sociology; Associate Dean of Social Sciences, UC Santa Barbara
Victor Rios researches the role of social control and education in determining the well-being of young people living in urban marginality. He uses insights from his research to promote equitable policies and develop programs to improve the lives of marginalized youths. Rios's award-winning book, Punished: Policing the Lives of Black and Latino Boys, analyzes how juvenile crime policies and criminalization affect the everyday lives of urban youth. He received his Ph.D. in sociology from UC Berkeley, where he was a student of Michael Omi.

Lisa Lowe
Samuel Knight Professor of American Studies; Professor of Ethnicity, Race, and Migration, Yale University
Lisa Lowe is an interdisciplinary scholar who works on race, immigration, capitalism, and colonialism. She is the author of Critical Terrains: French and British Orientalisms, Immigrant Acts: On Asian American Cultural Politics, and The Intimacies of Four Continents. Lowe is also the co-editor of The Politics of Culture in the Shadow of Capital and New Questions, New Formations: Asian American Studies.

Troy Duster
Chancellor's Professor Emeritus, Warren Institute on Law and Social Policy
Troy Duster's research and writing have ranged across a variety of subject areas: law, science, deviance, inequality, race, and education. His first book, The Legislation of Morality: Drugs, Crime, and Law became a classic in the drug field. Duster is co-author of Whitewashing Race: The Myth of a Color-Blind Society. Backdoor to Eugenics was one of the first academic books to explore genetic testing from a sociological perspective. Duster founded the Institute for the Study of Social Change, now the Institute for the Study of Societal Issues.

Michael Omi
Professor Emeritus, Asian American and Asian Diaspora Studies
Michael Omi is best known as the co-author of Racial Formation in the United States, a groundbreaking work that transformed how we understand the social and historical forces that give race its changing meaning over time and place.

How do you feel? Molecular Mechanisms of Itch, Touch, and Pain

1:10 to 2 p.m.
Virtual

Acute pain acts as a warning signal that alerts us to noxious stimuli in our environment that are potentially tissue damaging. Likewise, itch sensations trigger reflexes that protect us from diseases that insects may be carrying. Despite these essential protective functions, itch and pain can outlast their usefulness and become chronic debilitating conditions that affect millions of people worldwide. Professor Diana Bautista will summarize what is known about the biology of itch, touch, and pain then focus on her latest research identifying novel mechanisms that drive chronic itch, chronic pain, and inflammatory disease.

Diana Bautista
Professor of Cell & Developmental Biology and of Neurobiology
Diana Bautista received her bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Oregon and her Ph.D. in neuroscience from Stanford University. Bautista was a postdoctoral fellow in physiology at the UCSF. She joined the faculty at UC Berkeley in 2008. Bautista and fellow researchers at her lab study molecular and cellular mechanisms of itch, touch, and pain under normal and disease conditions. Bautista's work has been recognized with numerous awards, including the Society for Neuroscience Young Investigator Award, a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Scholar Award, and a NIH Director's Transformative Research Award.

A Conversation With the Chancellor

2:10 to 3 p.m.
Hertz Hall

Join Chancellor Carol T. Christ live for a campus update as well as a conversation with Professor Amy E. Herr on the unique ways that Berkeley supports innovation and leadership. UC Berkeley researchers are rising to meet the monumental challenges facing humanity. And as a powerhouse in entrepreneurship (Forbes No. 2 Start-Up University, 2020), Berkeley is uniquely poised to quickly turn even the most complex deep-science discoveries into solutions. Learn more about Berkeley's boldest and most recent effort to boost researchers in this entrepreneurial undertaking: the Bakar BioEnginuity Hub.

Carol T. Christ
Chancellor
Carol T. Christ began her term as Berkeley's 11th chancellor in 2017. A celebrated scholar of Victorian literature, she is also known as an advocate for high-caliber, accessible public higher education and a champion of women's issues and diversity on college campuses. Christ spent more than three decades as a professor and administrator at Berkeley before serving as president of Smith College. At Cal, she works to foster community, improve the campus climate for people of all backgrounds, celebrate the institution's long-standing commitment to free speech, strengthen Berkeley's financial position, address a housing shortage, and develop a ten-year strategic plan for the campus.

Amy Herr
John D. & Catherine T. MacArthur Professor, Bioengineering; Executive Director, Bakar BioEnginuity Hub
Professor Amy E. Herr's research group aims to create tiny "stethoscopes for cells" to measure disease biomarkers in individual human cells. She manages the interdisciplinary research group's work on designing these microanalytical tools and applying the tools in close collaboration with physicians. Through both knowledge and clinical translation, Herr seeks to advance engineering to benefit humanity. Complementing her academic research is a third prong of translation: entrepreneurship. By leading the pioneering Bakar Fellows program and the new Bakar BioEnginuity Hub, Professor Herr aims to accelerate translation of discoveries by UC Berkeley's faculty and scholars.

Center for Connected Learning at Moffitt Library Tour

2:30 to 3:30 p.m.
Moffitt Library

This exclusive tour is for members of the classes of 1956 and 1966. The center connects undergraduates with information, technology, and one another under one roof. Moffitt's top two floors were successfully redesigned in 2016. And a redesign of its three remaining floors is planned to create a seamless space for learning, discovery, and well-being. Transforming the center is key in enhancing the undergraduate experience. Students will get help from professionals and peers in an innovative consultation courtyard, use virtual reality to explore solutions to real-world problems, and engage more deeply in their courses in modern classrooms. Gather at the north entrance of Doe Library to begin the tour.

Native American Food and Seed Sovereignty

3:10 to 4 p.m.
Virtual

Because "we are what we eat," the Native American food sovereignty movement is working to revitalize and perpetuate traditional food systems in order to promote good physical, cultural and spiritual health. This is being done through the promotion of seed sovereignty and the reclamation and rematriation of Native heirloom seeds; through the work of Native chefs seeking to reclaim and define Indigenous cuisine; and in fighting for a clean environment in which to nurture these foods. Learn about Native American food sovereignty efforts nationwide and current projects here at UC Berkeley.

Elizabeth Hoover
Associate Professor, Department of Environmental Science, Policy, and Management
Elizabeth Hoover's research, life, and community work focus on food sovereignty and environmental justice for Native American communities. Based on collaborations with tribal communities across the United States, Hoover has published books and articles about food sovereignty and seed rematriation; environmental reproductive justice; and tribal citizen science and community based participatory research.

Brave New Heights: Libraries After the Pandemic

10:10 to 11 a.m.
Virtual

While its doors were closed during the pandemic, the Library remained open virtually. The Library redesigned some services and invented new ones to meet students where they were: everywhere. For example, an electronic course reserves program allowed students access to free online versions of articles, books, and videos needed for their classes, helping them shoulder a great financial burden. Join Jeff MacKie-Mason, university librarian and professor, as he discusses how a global health crisis inspired libraries to reimagine what they do and what the future of libraries will look like.

Jeff MacKie-Mason

Moving the Needle: Berkeley Engineers in Service to Society

10:10 to 11 a.m.
Virtual

Join us for a lively conversation with Dean Tsu-Jae King Liu and three outstanding faculty members! Berkeley Engineering is moving the needle to advance and improve the public good in the areas of artificial intelligence, climate change, public health, and more. Learn about research that will help you feel encouraged and hopeful about the state of our world.

Tsu-Jae King Liu
Dean, Berkeley Engineering
Tsu-Jae King Liu is internationally recognized in academia and industry for her innovations in semiconductor devices and technology and is highly regarded for her achievements as an instructor, mentor, and administrator.

Events are first-come, first-served. Arrive early! All events take place rain or shine.
All guests are expected to comply with current local public health guidelines.

Dean Liu is the Roy W. Carlson Professor of Engineering, Electrical Engineering and Computer Sciences.

Ashok Gadgil
Professor, Department of Civil & Environmental Engineering
Ashok Gadgil holds the Andrew and Virginia Rudd Family Foundation Chair and is professor of safe water and sanitation in the Department of Civil & Environmental Engineering and senior faculty scientist at Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory.

Ting Xu
Professor, Materials Science and Engineering
Ting Xu is a professor of materials science and engineering and an affiliate with the Kavli Energy Nanoscience Institute. Researchers at the institute have invented a way to make compostable plastics break down more easily with just heat and water within a few weeks, helping to solve a problem that has flummoxed the plastics industry and environmentalists.

Rediet Abebe
Assistant Professor, Electrical Engineering and Computer Sciences
Rediet Abebe is an assistant professor in the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Sciences and a faculty researcher at the BAIR Lab, the Berkeley Institute for Data Science, and CITRIS. She co-founded Black in AI, a nonprofit on a mission to diversify the AI profession.

College of Chemistry Student Panel With Undergraduate Dean

10:10 to 11:30 a.m.
Virtual

Undergraduate Dean John Arnold will offer an update on undergraduate studies at the College of Chemistry and facilitate a panel discussion with current undergraduate students. Get the student perspective on how they made the most of their time at Berkeley and how you as parents can play a role in this exciting adventure for your current students.

John Arnold
Associate Dean of Undergraduate Affairs, College of Chemistry
John Arnold is a chemistry professor and the associate dean of undergraduate affairs at the College of Chemistry. He has served as the undergraduate dean since July 2017. Arnold brings a strong record of teaching and mentoring and a proven dedication to students. His research targets synthetic inorganic chemistry, with the primary goal being to make, purify, and study molecules and materials that are interesting by virtue of their unusual structures and chemical reactivity.

Continuing the Legacy of Activism with Chizu Omori

11:10 a.m. to noon
Virtual

Chizu Omori '54 will be in conversation with Japanese American Women Alumnae of UC Berkeley (JAWAUCB) vice chair Stacy Kono '95 about the people, organizations, and movements that have inspired her activism over the years, which continues today in support of immigrant rights and Black reparations movements.

Chizu Omori
Chizu Omori is a mother, grandmother, activist, award-winning documentary producer, and writer whose story was featured in Oprah Magazine. JAWAUCB awarded her its 2021 Outstanding Alumna Award because of her strong commitment to civil and human rights, which was fostered by her experiences as a student at UC Berkeley during the Free Speech Movement.

The Science of Energy Management: How to Increase Daily Stamina and Maintain Motivation

11:10 a.m. to noon
Arthur Andersen Auditorium, Haas School of Business

To manage a growing workload, it's tempting to throw more hours at the problem. Unfortunately, time is a finite resource. Energy, on the other hand, is renewable. It can be enhanced and maintained by learning how to work in line with our natural and biological energy curves. With some straightforward interventions, the science of stamina has advanced to the point where individuals, teams, and whole organizations can significantly increase their capacity to get things done without increasing the number of hours worked. Session participants are encouraged to take a Biological Chronotype Assessment. Visit the mobile app or website for more information.

Sahar Yousef
Cognitive Neuroscientist, Berkeley Haas
Sahar Yousef is a cognitive neuroscientist and the youngest faculty member at UC Berkeley's Haas School of Business. She teaches one of the most popular MBA classes, "Becoming Superhuman: The Science of Productivity and Performance" and has been featured in Forbes, The Wall Street Journal, Wired, and Business Insider. Outside of the academic world, Yousef co-runs "Becoming Superhuman," a training and consulting firm which teaches busy professionals how to get their most important work done in less time with less stress.

Electrophysiology Unplugged: Watching the Brain in Action

12:10 to 1 p.m.
Virtual

Since the late 1800s, chemistry has played an important role in illuminating the structure and function of the brain. This lecture explores efforts at UC Berkeley to use the power of organic chemistry to visualize the electrical impulses that drive brain function.

Evan Miller
Associate Professor, Chemistry and Molecular & Cell Biology
Evan Miller Ph.D. is the 2021 Donald Sterling Noyce Prize for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching. The Noyce Prize is given annually to a faculty member in the physical sciences based on student recommendations. Professor Miller joined the College of Chemistry in 2013. His research focuses on the interface of synthetic chemistry, biology, and neuroscience to explore new chemical methodologies and their relationships between molecular identity and membrane potential in the brain and beyond.

Graduate School of Education Lecture

12:10 to 1 p.m.
Virtual

The Graduate School of Education will host a lecture by Janelle T. Scott.

Janelle Scott
Professor, Graduate School of Education, Department of African American Studies
Janelle T. Scott holds the Robert C. and Mary Catherine Birgeneau Distinguished Chair in Educational Disparities. She earned a Ph.D. in education policy from UCLA and a B.A. in political science from UC Berkeley. Prior to earning her doctorate, Scott taught elementary school in Oakland. Scott's research explores the relationship among education, policy, and equality of opportunity. It centers on three related policy strands: the racial politics of public education; the politics of school choice, marketization, and privatization; and the role of elite and community-based advocacy in shaping public education.
